

Climber's Checklist

- Backpack: You'll want a day pack or book bag to carry all of your climbing gear and any other items so that your hands are free as we hike to our site
- Hiking boots or athletic shoes: The hike to our climbing site is approximately one half mile through some rocky terrain
- Water...lots and lots of water! We suggest a minimum of 2 liters.
- Lunch: Any portable food that doesn't require refrigeration works! (ex: fruit, sandwiches, trail mix, granola bars)
- Sun Protection: Sunscreen, a hat, sunglasses
- Clothing for Climbing: You should plan to wear loose fitting and comfortable attire that will allow you to move freely as you scale up the wall. Clothing that will restrict your movement is not a good choice. Shorts, loose-fitting hiking pants, running leggings, T-shirts, tank-tops are the best bet.
- Jacket or Light Outerwear: Depending on when you are climbing, be prepared for colder temperatures and/or the chance of rain showers
- Camera: You'll definitely want to capture the experience to prove to all your friends that you made it to the top!
- Reimer's Ranch Climbers: If you are scheduled to climb with us at Reimer's Ranch, you'll need to pay the $10 park entrance fee at the Ranger Station and turn in the park waiver
- Enthusiasm!